“ Bryan and I served together on the same ship in the US Navy. We worked on the same anti-aircraft missile system. We became very close friends. We saw a lot of country and enjoyed many great times both overseas and stateside. For many years following our military service we kept in touch, visiting each other's home state, families and friends. Bryan was a talented and creative man with a great mind. His knowledge of rock and roll history was second to none. We shared that interest and a love for stereo systems, firearms, fine wine and good food. You always knew where you stood with Bryan. He knew what he wanted and had no qualms about sharing his opinions. Though different paths and the years took its toll on our contact, he was always my friend. I will remember him always and miss him dearly.

“ I met Bryan in Hong Kong, in 1980, where I was under training as police inspector with the Royal Hong Kong Police.
He was in the US Navy on shore leave. We hit the town one memorable night. I still have a photo somewhere.
Thereafter we corresponded for several years. We described what we were doing, about work, relationships, what we were drinking and what music we were listening to.
I came across Bryan's obituary by chance. I was looking online for some of my family information (my grandfather was a Graham, from Scotland).
I recognised the references to US Navy and US Postal Service, saw Bryan's age and, sadly realised that this was the announcement of my Hong Kong drinking buddy and penpal.
My sympathies to his family and friends

“ Marge and Family, I am so sorry for your loss. I remember the little boy who was a classmate of my son Brian at Frances Slocum School in Fort Wayne. May God be with each of you at this time and may the precious memories of days gone by bring comfort.
God Bless.

“ Marsha, I am terribly sorry for your loss, I went to school with Bryan at Homestead! He was a really funny guy and a great friend. We did a lot of crazy things in high school like our version of "The Lord Of The Flies" for an English class! I lost touch with Bryan after our 10 year class reunion, would have liked to hang out again! As they say, life is short and we should not miss an opportunity to tell people how much they meant to us, being a part of our lives. Rest in peace Bryan.
