“ Jim and I grew up together. We worked at new door together for 10 years. It seemed like they always had me an Jim doing the odd stuff like loading trucks and things like that. We had a lot of good times. And there was a few bad. If there was one thing. I learned from Jim. Was to stand up and face your troubles in deal with them. I always admired that out of Jim. He always stood up and deal with this problems like a lion. He was a good man and I will miss him a lot. Take care of my friend because I know you will.
